The Alma Mater

In the heart of dear old Emory
Where the sun doth shine,
That is where our hearts are turning
'Round old Emory's shrine.

We will ever sing thy praises,
Sons and daughters true.
Hail we now our Alma Mater,
Hail the Gold and Blue!

Tho' the years around us gather,
Crowned with love and cheer,
Still the memory of Old Emory
Grows to us more dear.

We will ever sing thy praises,
Sons and daughters true.
Hail we now our Alma Mater,
Hail the Gold and Blue!

The Marion Luther Brittain Service Awards

The Marion Luther Brittain Service Award is presented each year to two graduating students (one undergraduate and one graduate) from any academic division of the university who are considered to have performed the most "significant, meritorious, and devoted service to Emory University." Considered the highest honor presented to a student by Emory University, the Brittain Award recognizes two students whose contributions to Emory are outstanding. The award is made under provisions of a gift by the late M. L. Brittain, former president of the Georgia Institute of Technology and alumnus of Emory.

Khegan Meyers 24B
Undergraduate Recipient

Communities within Emory and around Atlanta have felt the impact of Khegan Meyers during his four years as a student.

While double-majoring in business administration and political science, he served as the president of Emory's Student Government Association, leading project teams to support campus, and student outcomes such as improving campus-resource navigation tools, boosting student group funds and enhancing support for cultural and intersectional identity organizations.

Meyers also worked with Sharon Rabinovitz, executive director of Student Health Services, advocating for expanded insurance coverage for Emory students and implementing health-access vending machines on campus that will include emergency contraception and reproductive care items.

His passion for serving the campus community led him to work with fellow students as a resident advisor and serve as vice president of the Interfraternity Council. As an organizer for Emory Students for Students, Meyers led chartering and tax-filing efforts for its mutual-aid mission, which to date has distributed $10,000. He has worked to increase access to and interest in voting on campus through the Emory Center for Civic and Community Engagement and with Young Democrats of Emory, boosting voter registration and helping implement voting locations on campus. Meyers also worked with Emory's Community Building and Social Change program, working to collect information and build support services for immigrant-owned small businesses along the Buford Highway corridor of Atlanta.

Sharpening his political and community-engagement skills off campus, Meyers reached hundreds of donors and organized a team to train more than 600 volunteers working for now-Sen. Jon Ossoff's campaign. Shortly thereafter, he served as a legislative aide for Rep. David Wilkerson in the Georgia House of Representatives, conducting policy research and reviewing committee hearings.

Meyers spent his last summer as an Emory student with the consulting firm McKinsey & Company as a summer business analyst. He leaned into his interest in health and community well-being by advising a strategy to accurately document patient conditions and record "condition categories" for 1.3 million new Affordable Care Act (ACA) plan enrollees.

The undergraduate Marion Luther Brittain Award recognizes Meyers's commitment to Emory's student body, campus life, and service beyond the university.

Alan Amedi 24M
Graduate Recipient

During his time in the School of Medicine, Alan Amedi prioritized service and leadership to the community and school while maintaining a demanding academic load and engaging in research and scholarship.

As a first-generation, low-income student whose parents are Kurdish refugees, Amedi feared his dream of medical school would be out of reach—despite inspiration from his uncle, who served as a medic during the war, saving the lives of Kurds amid persecution and violence. Through mentorship from Heval Kelli 15MR, a physician and Kurdish refugee himself, Amedi saw there was a realistic, if difficult, path to becoming a doctor. After graduating from Georgia State University, he worked for two years to help his family and fund his application process to medical school.

Throughout his time at Emory, Amedi has given back to communities that supported him. He serves as vice president of his School of Medicine class and president of the Cardiothoracic Surgery Interest Group; participated in a weeklong 2023 trip to Yantalo, Peru, where he provided pediatric surgical care and assistance; and is the clinic coordinator for the Clarkston Community Health Center, a nonprofit that provides a medical home to uninsured individuals in Clarkston, Georgia, a major refugee resettlement area where he grew up.

Amedi also serves as the college education director of the Young Physicians Initiative (YPI), an organization founded by Kelli to provide guidance to underserved students interested in medicine. As an undergraduate, Amedi attended YPI sessions led by Emory medical students; now, he organizes the group's outreach to five undergraduate institutions in Georgia, including mentorship circles and virtual clinical shadowing.

Amedi was born in Clarkston after his parents fled the Kurdish region in 1996, and much of his identity remains rooted in his Kurdish background. During the peak of the COVID-19 pandemic—at the start of his medical training—he worked to ensure the Kurdish population received information about the virus and the benefits of vaccination; he has continued to serve this population as a medical translator. He also serves as executive student vice president of the Kurdish American Medical Association, where he helps connect Kurdish medical students across the country.

This fall Amedi will head west to begin his residency in general surgery at Cedars-Sinai in Los Angeles.

The Exemplary Teacher of the Year Award

Chosen by the university president from nominations by the deans on behalf of the United Methodist Church Board of Higher Education and Ministry.

Margaret (Molly) McGehee 07PhD
Professor of English and American Studies
Senior Associate Dean of Teaching, Scholarship, and Strategic Initiatives
Oxford College

In a decade of service to Oxford College as a teacher, scholar, and administrator, Molly McGehee uniquely models the profound impact that a dedicated teacher-scholar can have both institutionally and individually. Central to her approach is a desire to enhance student and faculty flourishing.

McGehee not only co-chaired the search that resulted in the appointment of Oxford's new dean in 2023; she is also everyone's first choice when forming a new working group or planning an initiative. She leads through inclusion, thoughtfully drawing others in and reminding them that—whatever their role—they are valued.

Known as a "doer," and a tireless one, McGehee was instrumental in helping faculty navigate the challenges of the pandemic and the transition to remote learning. Fellow faculty members consider her "the teacher of teachers," drawing valuable lessons from her pedagogy. Building on Oxford's reputation for outstanding teaching, McGehee is a peerless mentor to junior faculty and a champion of faculty diversity.

Across curricular and co-curricular programs, as well as with community and corporate partners, McGehee leads the strategic-planning priorities for Oxford.

For students, the care she exudes is palpable, both for them personally and as evolving scholars. Fostering a classroom environment that encourages creative expression and rigorous inquiry, McGehee routinely sees in her evaluations what one-to-one engagement with students can mean. As one student wrote, "Her leadership, mentorship, and most of all her unwavering humanity have continued to make me a better person."

One of her courses—Monuments, Memorials, Meanings—both reflects an expertise of hers and led to her co-chairing the Twin Memorials Working Group, which inaugurated an ongoing project to honor the contributions enslaved individuals and their descendants have made to Emory. She helped lead two Global Connections trips, one of which took students to Japan while the other was a trip through the US South focused on civil rights and social justice.

McGehee has served as president of the Southern American Studies Association and as an elected member of the Society for the Study of Southern Literature; she currently serves on the board of the Southern American Studies Association. Her current book manuscript is "Atlanta Fictions: Women Writers' Urban Imaginaries."

A potent symbol of what makes Oxford an incomparable place to learn and teach, McGehee advocates for programs and people while balancing the needs of the college and the university as a whole.

The Thomas Jefferson Award

Awarded each year to a faculty member or administrative officer for significant service to the university through personal activities, influence, and leadership.

Lobsang Tenzin Negi 99PhD
Teaching professor, Department of Religion, Emory College of Arts and Sciences
Executive Director, Center for Contemplative Science and Compassion-Based Ethics

Lobsang Tenzin Negi has worked tirelessly to build transformative programs and bring positive international attention to Emory. Across his more than thirty years at the university, Negi has dedicated his intelligence, strategic thinking, and boundless energy to making Emory the institution that, in the words of His Holiness the XIV Dalai Lama, bridges two traditions for the sake of one humanity.

Negi trained as a Tibetan monk at the Institute for Buddhist Dialectics in Dharamsala, India, before receiving his Geshe Lharampa degree—the highest academic degree granted in the Buddhist Geluk tradition—from Drepung Loseling Monastic University in south India.

In 1991, he was sent to Georgia to develop a meditation center, at which time the Dalai Lama advised him to study Western philosophy and the science of the mind. Negi began looking into graduate opportunities at Emory, where he eventually earned a PhD and began working to develop a stronger relationship between Emory and his alma mater.

With Negi at the helm, that relationship has grown exponentially—all from the initial desire to bring Tibetan scholars to lecture at Emory and send Emory students to Tibetan communities in India via study-abroad programs.

Negi developed CBCT (Cognitively Based Compassion Training) in 2004 to help students reduce stress, anxiety, and depression, and to advance the science of compassion. During the past twenty years, CBCT has been offered across eighteen countries and in eight languages.

In 2006, Negi facilitated the development of the Emory-Tibet Science Initiative, a six-year science curriculum implemented in major Tibetan monasteries and nunneries. This unique program brings together the strengths of both the Western and Tibetan Buddhist traditions and led to the Dalai Lama accepting a Presidential Distinguished Professorship at Emory in 2007.

This academic collaboration between Emory and the Dalai Lama ultimately ushered in SEE Learning (Social, Emotional, and Ethical Learning), which has engaged K-12 educators across the globe to promote compassion and ethics while being grounded in contemplative science. Negi led the team that developed the framework and curricula, which were officially launched internationally in 2019 in the presence of the Dalai Lama. Today, SEE Learning is implemented in twenty-two languages and more than forty countries, reaching more than 10,000,000 students.

The number of people whose lives have been changed for the better by aspects of Negi's compassionate leadership, scholarship, and pedagogy is incalculable and global in scope. As a result of his efforts, Emory is acknowledged around the world as a leader in the study and practice of compassion meditation and ethical education.

Honorary Degrees

Victor Dzau

Medical Innovator, Healer of Hearts, Equity Champion
Doctor of Science, honoris causa

President of the National Academy of Medicine (NAM), Victor Dzau is a renowned physician-scientist who has improved health care around the world.

His groundbreaking work in cardiovascular medicine and genetics laid the foundation for the development of ACE inhibitors—lifesaving drugs used globally to treat hypertension and heart failure. He pioneered gene therapy for vascular disease and was the first to introduce DNA decoy molecules in humans in vivo. In leading research on cardiovascular regeneration, Dzau developed the paracrine hypothesis of stem-cell action and the strategy of direct cardiac reprogramming.

At NAM, Dzau has designed and led the Commission on a Global Health Risk Framework for the Future, the Human Gene Editing Initiative, and Vital Directions for Health and Health Care. Under his leadership, NAM has launched the National Action Plan and Campaign for Health Workforce Wellbeing, as well as Accelerating the National Movement for Climate Change and Health.

Vice chair of the National Research Council, Dzau is chancellor emeritus and James B. Duke Distinguished Professor of Medicine at Duke University and past president and CEO of the Duke University Health System.

Among his honors are the Max Delbrück Medal, the American Heart Association's Distinguished Scientist Award, the Ellis Island Medal of Honor, the Polzer Prize from the European Academy of Sciences and Arts, and the Henry Freisen International Prize. In 2014, he received the Public Service Medal from the president of Singapore.

Dzau has been elected to the National Academy of Medicine, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, the European Academy of Sciences and Arts, and Academia Sinica.

From the time of his childhood in postwar China, having witnessed the indelible impact of poverty and illness, Dzau has been committed to eliminating health disparities among underrepresented ethnic and racial populations.

For almost two decades, he has served in advisory and leadership capacities for the National Institutes of Health and has been asked by international societies, foreign governments, WHO, and G7/G20 to evaluate, advise, and organize biomedical research and health care programs.

A key international adviser on health risks, including COVID, Dzau serves on the Global Preparedness Monitoring Board and co-chaired the Global Health Summit Scientific Expert Panel established by the G20 and European Commission.

He will be the keynote speaker for the School of Medicine's MD diploma ceremony.

Robert McDuffie

Violin Virtuoso, Musical Collaborator, Arts Advocate
Doctor of Music, honoris causa

Born into a musical family in Macon, Georgia, violinist Robert McDuffie trained at New York City's Juilliard School. In a dynamic and multifaceted career, he has performed as a soloist with renowned orchestras on five continents.

At Mercer University in his hometown, he founded the Robert McDuffie Center for Strings—which offers conservatory-quality training—and holds the Genelle and Mansfield Jennings Distinguished University Professor Chair. He also holds the Robert McDuffie Violin Faculty Chair at the Aspen Music Festival and School.

Philip Glass dedicated his Violin Concerto No. 2, The American Four Seasons, to McDuffie, who performed the world premiere with the Toronto Symphony and completed a 30-city tour with the Venice Baroque Orchestra, pairing Glass's Four Seasons with Vivaldi's Four Seasons.

Mike Mills of the iconic band R.E.M., a childhood friend of McDuffie, composed the Concerto for Violin, Rock Band, and String Orchestra for him. The concerto premiered with the Toronto Symphony, followed by performances at the Rome Chamber Music Festival, Aspen Music Festival, and a three-week US tour.

Nominated for a Grammy in 1990 for his performance of concertos by Leonard Bernstein and William Schuman, McDuffie in 2023 received a Southeast Regional Emmy Award for A Night of Georgia Music with Mills, Rolling Stones pianist Chuck Leavell, and the McDuffie Center for Strings ensemble. The program aired on PBS stations across the country.

McDuffie shared the stage with Leavell and the late Gregg Allman in Midnight Rider and with actress and playwright Anna Deavere Smith in Martin Luther King Jr.'s Letter from Birmingham Jail, performed at the 2013 Aspens Ideas Festival in honor of the letter's 50th anniversary.

As founder of the Rome Chamber Music Festival, McDuffie has been awarded the prestigious Premio Simpatia by the mayor of Rome, Italy, in recognition of his contribution to the city's cultural life.

Known for his wide-ranging discography, McDuffie recently released Icons with pianist Elizabeth Pridgen, which features sonatas of Philip Glass and John Corigliano as well as John Adams's Road Movies.

For 10 years, McDuffie served on the board of directors of the Harlem School of the Arts in New York City.

He has been profiled on NBC's Today Show, CBS's Sunday Morning, and in the New York Times and Wall Street Journal.

McDuffie plays a Guarneri del Gesù violin made in 1735 named the "Ladenburg," whose list of players has included the 19th-century virtuosos Nicolò Paganini and Ludwig Spohr.

Emory College of Arts and Sciences originated from a concern for higher education in a Christian setting on the part of the Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Chartered in 1836 in Oxford, Georgia, the college was named after John Emory (1789–1835), bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1964 the college at Oxford was named Oxford College of Emory University.

Emory College became Emory University by virtue of a charter granted by the Superior Court of DeKalb County on January 25, 1915. Although classes on the Atlanta campus were begun in the schools of law and theology as early as 1916, the college did not move to Atlanta until 1919. The university now includes nine schools, most tracing their origins to years before the chartering of the university itself. These schools are Emory College and Oxford College (1836), the School of Medicine (1854), Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing (1905), Candler School of Theology (1914), the School of Law (1916), Roberto C. Goizueta Business School (1919), the James T. Laney School of Graduate Studies (1919), and Rollins School of Public Health (1990).

The intent of the founders is perpetuated by the university's vision statement: A destination university internationally recognized as an inquiry-driven, ethically engaged, and diverse community, whose members work collaboratively for positive transformation in the world through courageous leadership in teaching, research, scholarship, health care, and social action.

Emory University Land Acknowledgment

Emory University acknowledges the Muscogee (Creek) people who lived, worked, produced knowledge on, and nurtured the land where Emory's Oxford and Atlanta campuses are now located. In 1821, fifteen years before Emory's founding, the Muscogee were forced to relinquish this land. We recognize the sustained oppression, land dispossession, and involuntary removals of the Muscogee and Cherokee peoples from Georgia and the Southeast. Emory seeks to honor the Muscogee Nation and other Indigenous caretakers of this land by humbly seeking knowledge of their histories and committing to respectful stewardship of the land.

A Short History of Commencement at Emory

This is Emory's 179th commencement. The exercises witnessed today represent an imposition of medieval academic tradition on an institution that had its roots in the nineteenth-century frontier. The first Emory commencement was held in 1840, four years after Emory College had been chartered and two years after the college's first classes. That first ceremony, however, was without graduating students, as there were no graduates until the following year. Then, as now, sermons and addresses had a central focus in the exercises, though rarely have these addresses been so crucial as in 1849, when all fifteen members of the graduating class were assigned speaking places and spoke for as long as half an hour each.

Early commencement audiences sat for up to four hours in the midsummer heat to listen to the numerous student and faculty orations on such topics as "Our Government Unfavorable to High Attainment in Literature," "Social Equality," and "Modern Refinements." These addresses in the early days were in English, contrary to the practice at many other institutions. As President A. B. Longstreet argued in 1842, speeches in Latin and Greek were "worthy of the name pedantry, and nothing more." In spite of this advice, several later generations of students instructed their audiences in the ancient tongues.

Academic Dress and Customs

Academic dress goes back to the founding of European universities, which were the products of the intellectual revival of the twelfth century. All medieval students were clerks and consequently wore the dress of clergy. This is the academic costume we wear today, with certain changes introduced in the sixteenth century by Protestant reformers. The oldest articles of academic wear were the robe, over which was worn the habit, usually a kind of tunic with short, wide sleeves. The medieval hood was lined with fur or inexpensive skins and could be gathered around the neck or pulled up on the head as a turban. It is uncertain when different colors became associated with different degrees.

There were four kinds of caps: the round cap, reserved for doctoral dignity; the tena, a round cap with strings tied under the chin, worn by jurists; the square cap; and the Tudor bonnet. At Oxford University in 1565 the square cap became the norm, but the faculties that had become laicized adopted the Tudor bonnet that is still worn by doctoral candidates today. The basic design of all academic costume in the United States was first established in 1895 and was first used at Emory by the Class of 1902. The bachelor's gown features an embroidered Emory University seal in gold thread and has long, pointed, open sleeves. The master's gown has longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom with openings about midway for the hands. Beginning in 2014, the bachelor's and master's gowns are made of fabric spun from molten plastic pellets from recycled water bottles. An average of twenty-three post-consumer plastic bottles are used to create each gown, furthering Emory's commitment to sustainability initiatives. The doctor's gown has full-length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. Tassels for bachelor's and master's caps are black; tassels of gold thread may be worn by doctors. Gowns and caps are usually black, although Emory and some other schools have specified that their doctors may wear gowns of distinctive colors. Yale's deep blue doctoral gown, Harvard's crimson, Columbia's dark blue, and Emory's blue and gold are a few that may be seen in the procession.

The hood varies for the respective degrees, the doctor's hood being longer and fuller than the master's. The field of study can be determined from the velvet facing on the hood according to the following color scheme: white, the arts; gold-yellow, science; purple, law; apricot, nursing; green, medicine; teal, physical therapy; scarlet, theology; salmon, public health; drab, business; and dark blue, doctors of philosophy. The hood is lined with silk in the colors of the degree-granting institution. For Emory graduates the lining is blue with a chevron of gold.

The president of Emory University wears a badge of office given to the university in 1965 by the Emory chapter, Gamma of Georgia, of Phi Beta Kappa. Designed by Eric Clements of Birmingham, England, and executed by the Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths in London, the solid gold badge is an open teardrop enclosing the raised seal of the university and is suspended on a gold chain.

The chief marshal and deputy marshals lead the academic procession. The faculty marshals and the secretary of the university jointly manage the forming of the procession, the seating of commencement participants, and the planning of other aspects of commencement exercises. Marshals are identified by their unique blue tunics, which are sleeveless and lined with gold.

The Quadrangle stage with blue canopy was named the University Marshals' Stage in honor of the dedication and service provided by Emory's chief marshals throughout history.

The university mace is carried in the procession by the immediate past president of the Student Government Association. Academically the mace is the symbol of a university as a corporate body of scholars possessing its own jurisdiction and its own legally constituted authority. Traditionally the mace is borne in procession immediately before the chief officer of a university and is placed before them during formal academic ceremonies.

The mace of Emory University, a gift from D.V.S., an Emory College senior honor society, was designed by Eric Clements and executed in silver and gold by the Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths. In the teardrop at the apex of the mace, against a background of oxidized silver, is a freestanding representation in gold of a human skeleton. This is Dooley, the "spirit" of Emory, who traditionally "rises" once each spring and for a week rules campus. Immediately below the skeleton, in an open teardrop, is a gold sphere divided (by stippling) into eight segments. Topping the sphere is a simple cross, symbolizing the relationship of Emory University to the Methodist church. The seal of the university is sculptured in gold within the circular base.

Before each school in the procession, the school's student marshal carries its gonfalon, a banner in the color associated with the respective school's degree: medicine, green; public health, salmon; nursing, apricot; theology, scarlet; law, purple; and business, drab. The gonfalon of the graduate school is gold representing Emory's gold, and the gonfalons of Emory College and Oxford College represent Emory's blue.

Emory Alumni Legacy Medallion

Graduating students who have a parent, grandparent, and/or sibling who is also an Emory graduate are wearing specially commissioned medallions hanging from blue and gold ribbons. The medallions are expressions of the university's gratitude to those families who have chosen to continue the Emory education tradition throughout the generations.

The Commencement Setting

Spectators on the Quadrangle are seated facing the former Pitts Theology Library, one of the two oldest buildings on the Atlanta campus. Designed by the distinguished Pittsburgh architect Henry Hornbostel (1867–1961), Convocation Hall—as it is now known—was the original theology building in 1916. It was renovated in 1975 by architect Paul Rudolph to house the expanded library collection of Candler School of Theology. Renovated again, the building reopened in 2019 as a community gathering space and to welcome visitors and members of the campus community alike as they meet with the university's president and other leaders.

Directly behind the spectators are Carlos Hall, the other original campus building, and the expanded Michael C. Carlos Museum. Formerly home to the School of Law, Carlos Hall was renovated in 1986 according to a design by Michael Graves to house the museum and the Department of Art History. The museum is named for the philanthropist who donated most of the cost of the facility. It was designed to maintain the classic symmetry and proportion of the surrounding buildings, which are listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Bowden Hall, east of the museum, was constructed in 1951 in the same style as the original campus buildings. Originally the History Building, it was renamed in 1991 in honor of the late Henry L. Bowden, former chair of the Board of Trustees of Emory University. To the southeast of Bowden Hall is the Center for Library and Information Resources. The center joins the tall, red-tile-crowned Robert W. Woodruff Library and is linked to the Asa Griggs Candler Memorial Library at the east end of the Quadrangle. Candler Library was dedicated in 1926 in honor of the man who donated the land for the campus and who provided the university with strong leadership in its early years.

Next to Convocation Hall is the Loula Walker and Ely Reeves Callaway Sr. Memorial Center. Thanks to a generous gift from alumnus Ely R. Callaway Jr. in honor of his parents, this center joins the former Humanities Building with the original Physics Building, which was constructed in 1919.

At the west end of the Quadrangle is the Administration Building (1955), a gift of Charles Howard Candler. Like his father, Asa, Charles chaired the Board of Trustees for many years. Between the Administration Building and the former Pitts Library sits the more modern White Hall, the main classroom building of Emory College. Above the trees on the north side of the Quadrangle are the curved red roof of the William R. Cannon Chapel—designed by Paul Rudolph and dedicated in 1981—and the towers of Emory University Hospital to the east.

Since its founding in 1836, the university's Commencement traditions have evolved in interesting ways.
